

AJAs announces 2019 Winners

HALIFAX, May 8, 2020

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

The Atlantic Journalism Awards (AJAs) is pleased to announce the winners of the 2019 competition.

“Despite having to cancel the gala awards night due to Coronavirus, the AJAs’ board of directors felt it was essential to continue with the competition this year,” said Fred Hutton, chair of AJAs. “The importance of high-quality journalism has never been more apparent as journalists and media outlets work to inform Atlantic Canadians about Coronavirus, and to tell the stories that are important to us all. The AJAs celebrate the highest achievement in journalism each year and we congratulate the winners on their excellent work.”

“We are also pleased to induct three well-known journalists into the AJAs’ Hall of Fame, which recognizes journalism builders who have made a significant contribution to the profession,” said Hutton. “This year’s Hall of Fame inductees are Glen Carter, NTV News; Vernon Oickle, Bridgewater Bulletin; and David Cadogan, Miramichi Leader.”

The complete list of finalists and winners is below.

Winners have also been announced on the AJAs’ social media accounts: Facebook (@AtlanticJAwards) and Twitter (@atlanticJawards).

The AJAs are made possible by the strong support of the following sponsors:

- Communications Nova Scotia
- Marine Atlantic
- CWA/SCA Canada
